GeoJournal An International Journal on Human Geography and Environmental Sciences

Contents volume 44 nos. 1–4 1998

Volume 44 no. 1 1998

What about managerial geography?
Laulajainen, R. 1–7

Convergence in European diets: the case of alcoholic beverages
Grigg, D. 9–18

The role of water resources in the evolution of the Israeli–Lebanese border
Amery, H.A. 19–33

Embracing cultural geography: an army imperative
Thompson, D.M., Grubbs, J.H. 35–41

The analysis of compositional effects as exemplified by the study of elections
De Vos, S. 43–49

Indigenous knowledge of landscape–ecological zones among traditional herbalists: a case study in Keiyo District, Kenya
Jungerius, P.D. 51–60

Population and rangelands in Central Tibet: a GIS-based approach
Ryavec, K.E., Veregin, H. 61–72

Estimates of current and historical fluxes of N, Ca, and K in the forest ecosystem Möhlin
Egli, M. 73–89

Book reviews 91–93

Volume 44 no. 2 1998

Health, Environment and Development

Introduction
Groenewegen, P., Phillips, D.R., Verhasselt, Y. 95

Health, environment and development: issues in developing and transitional countries
Phillips, D.R., Groenewegen, P., Verhasselt, Y. 97–102

Human and environmental factors in the increasing incidence of dengue fever: a case study from Venezuela
Brightmer, M.I., Fantato, M.G. 103–109

Global warming, rising sea level, and growing risk of cholera incidence: a review of the literature and evidence
Borroto, R.J. 111–120

Environmental risk factors for diseases transmitted by vectors: a case study in North-Argentina
Curto de Casas, S.I., Verhasselt, Y., Carcavallo, R.U., Boffi, R. 121–127

Women's status, environmental changes and child health in the riverine area of Ondo State, Nigeria
Iyun, B.F. 129–139

Health, women and environment in a marginal region of north-eastern Cambodia
Bourdier, F. 141–150

The health state of the Romanian population during the transition period
Dumitrache, L., Armas, I. 151–160

Book reviews 161–165

IGU Reports 167–176

Announcements 177–183

Volume 44 no. 3 1998

Changing Border Regions in Europe and Asia

Editorial
Stryjakiewicz, T., Wu, Chung-Tong 187–188

Cross-border development in Europe and Asia
Wu, Chung-Tong 189–201

The changing role of border zones in the transforming economies of East-Central Europe: The case of Poland
Stryjakiewicz, T. 203–213

Double transformation at the eastern border of the EU: the case of the Euroregion pro Europa Viadrina
Bertram, H. 215–224

Cross-border regional development in Southern China
Chan, R.C.K. 225–237

Regional planning's last hurrah: the political economy of the Tumen River regional development plan
Karl, K., Wu, Chung-Tong 239–247

The role of the border city Hunchun on Tumen River, China
Lee, Ki-Suk 249–257

New borders for new world orders: territorialities at the fin-de-siecle
Kolossov, V., O'Loughlin, J. 259–273

Volume 44 no. 4 1998

From the regulation of space to the space of regulation
Benko, G., Lipietz, A. 275–281

Opportunities, constraints and pluriactivity in rural Romania during the transition period; preliminary observations
Sofer, M., Bordanc, F. 283–296

Beach Comfort Index – A new approach to evaluate the thermal conditions of beach holiday resorts using a South African example
Becker, S. 297–307

Soft numbers: problems with the quality of official data
Williams, A.V. 309–320

Urban integration of Israeli immigrants in the 1990s: a comparison of Be'er Sheva, Ashkelon, Kiriat Gat
Aymard, C., Benko, G. 321–336

Variations of the Effective Temperature Index (ET) in Kenya
Makokha, G.L. 337–343

Rural settlements in transition – agricultural and countryside crisis in Central-Eastern Europe
Rey, V., Bachvarov, M. 345–353

Last Glacial snowlines in the Tibetan Plateau: an argument against an extensive coalescing icesheet
Feng, Z.-D. 355–362

Volume Contents 363–365